

The Gazette, a few weeks ago, noted the fact that six of the girls employed in the Kanawha woolen mills, have been married within the last three months and incidentally remarked that that was a good place for the girls to go who were not adverse to matrimony. After this fact was published other girls sought employment there, and now the management informs the Gazette that three more of the girls have given notice this week that they will resign their positions to get married. The Kanawha woolen mills is a dangerous place for girls who prefer single blessedness.

Quite a phenomenon happened in town on Tuesday evening in the falling from the sky of an aerolite or meteoric stone in front of Hoffman's office. The stone is about the size of a hen's egg, black in appearance and when found was too hot to pick up. It was curvilinear in the descent and luminous in appearance as a full lighted lamp, and came with great velocity, producing such a sound as a cannon ball passing through the air.—Keyer Tribune.

On Wednesday, on the railroad works on Laurel creek, Webster county, a dynamite blast had been exploded, and the workmen went back to their proper positions, when an after blast occurred, injuring three or four men seriously. Three persons were almost blinded and badly burned about the face and head, while one Italian had one of his arms so badly mutilated that amputation below the elbow was necessary.

Miss Annie Belle Meddley, her uncle, J. A. Meddley, and Felix Burdette were drowned Saturday in the Kanawha river at Peersless, about twenty miles above Charleston. They were in a boat crossing the river. Miss Meddley was rowing and she lost an ear. They all got excited, the boat floated to the head of a coal barge, the current took them under and all were drowned. The bodies have not been recovered.

A Boy of Nine Who Has Reformed—He Talks to a Reporter of His Record.

At the city building yesterday an INTELLIGENCER reporter saw a bright boy sitting in the window of the police office, and asked for him if he was a prisoner. "No," he responded, "I'm just a visitor."

One of the officers introduced the lad as Charley Hafer, and in response to a question he said he was nine years old. His parents live here, but he some time ago ran away to Pittsburgh and caused somewhat of a sensation by telling there that his name was Charley Snowden, and that his father had killed a man. He was taken charge of by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and an agent of that organization brought him here yesterday to see if his parents would not sign a paper permitting a Pittsburgh family to adopt him. He has been living with the family for some time, and has a good home.

"Are you a good boy, Charley?" the reporter asked.

"Yes, I'm doing pretty well now. I used to be tough, but I have reformed."

"What did you use to do?"

"Oh, I swore, and stole, and lied and everything bad. But I'm not going to any more. The people up there at Pittsburgh made a man out of me."

It is Probably Morton.

Henry Nagle, of Bellaire, who is a deputy United States marshal, was at St. Clairsville Saturday, and says that one of the counterfeiters in jail there is the man Morton, who escaped from the Bellaire jail last Tuesday night. He had whiskers when he was there, but is clean shaven now. Morton's friends, and he seems to have lots of them, do not credit the story, as they say he was too slick to be caught with counterfeit dollars or many others in his clothes. It is a fact, however, that the day after the escape of Morton the INTELLIGENCER printed a statement that he had had his beard taken off at Martin's Ferry.

SPORTING NEWS

NEW YORK, March 13.—Faith that "Charley" Mitchell, alias "Sprinter Charley," will cover Sullivan's $2,500, which was put up on Thursday to bind a match with any pugilist in the world, barring Jackson, is fast fading away.

This imported, matchless "bluffer," as sporting men on this side of the Atlantic are wont to call him, while recently among his friends in Toronto, walked out upon the stage of the theatre in which he was giving boxing exhibitions with Slavin and very majestically told the audience that he wanted to fight John L. Sullivan, but that he did not think the big fellow meant business.

"Why doesn't Sullivan post a forfeit if he is not afraid to meet me, so that I can nail him?" he howled.

The very next day Jimmy Wakely deposited $2,500 in this city. Since then the minutes have gone by, lengthened into hours, and still no answer has come from Mitchell. He is silent, grandly silent. Nothing else was talked about yesterday among sporting men but the stand Sullivan has taken. Corbett's desire to meet him and the cowardly attitude assumed by the "Sprinter."

John L. paid further respects to Mitchell. He sent a dispatch to Wakely as follows:

Is Corbett's deposit covered? Let me know the entire situation. Cover all the other "bluffers' stuff." Am tired listening to their baby talk. Regards from Harrison and myself. Answer here.

Duncan B. Harrison, Sullivan's partner in the show business, is anxious to get a slice of the outside bid of $10,000 with Corbett. He telegraphed from Minneapolis, Minn., yesterday, to Wakely as follows:

"How much of match can you and will you let me have? Money ready. Regards."

"Charley" Johnston evidently got somewhat anxious and sent two dispatches to Wakely during the day asking if Corbett's money had been covered. Answers were sent to both Johnston and John L. nothing them of what had been done. It is certain that Sullivan and his friends are now on the warpath.

Wakely told me last night that he had heard nothing direct from Corbett, but had been told by a friend of his that he would surely be on hand next Tuesday, at one o'clock, to draw up the articles of agreement for a match.

"First come, first served," is Sullivan's motto now. Will another day go by without hearing that Mitchell will cover the champion's deposit?

Muldoon on Sullivan.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 13.—William Muldoon, recent trainer of John L. Sullivan, in an interview here, said: I think that it is all wind and Sullivan will not fight. For the past few months pugilists have been receiving a large amount of free advertising. So long as this continues there will be no necessity for a fight, but when it ceases a match will be made.

The same condition of affairs existed previous to the Sullivan-Kilrain battle. There is no doubt that John L. Sullivan is a most remarkable man, but there are to-day plenty of pugilists, any of whom you can match and no man dare name the winner. Fitzsimmons is one of the most promising heavy weights. His weight and measure are equal to Sullivan's, while in height he exceeds the champion by one inch. But I do not think they will ever come together.

I do not like to talk about Sullivan's condition, for we are not on friendly terms. Personally, Sullivan and I are the best of friends, but he is traveling with a gang of men who are living off him. I would give anything rather than see Sullivan whipped, and were it not for his associates would train him myself. But if he is forced by his managers into the coming fight they will put him into a hole. I do not think, however, this will occur, for the battle is a long way off.

After the money is posted, I think that with the proper training Sullivan could not be whipped. At present Sullivan's physical condition is weakened and the result is dubious to contemplate. I think one defeat would ruin Sullivan. I have noticed men with his temperament, like Dempsey, sent all to pieces, and should John L. meet with a reverse his fall would be even greater.

McClelland Wins Easily.

The skating race at the La Fayette rink in Martin's Ferry Saturday night, between W. I. Brown, of that city, and E. C. McClelland, of Wheeling, was won easily by the latter. IT LOOKS CROOKED.
A Recently Organized Insurance Company whose Officers are in Trouble.

On Saturday warrants were issued by United States Commissioner B. J. Campbell for the arrest of T. M. Garvin, president, and J. K. Elderkin, secretary, of the newly organized West Virginia Fire and Marine Insurance company, the charge being using the mails for fraudulent purposes. The warrant was served on Mr. Garvin and he was released on his own recognizance. Elderkin was expected here Saturday, but did not come. Ever since the organization of the new company there has been talk about its methods. Last Friday an INTELLIGENCER man had a talk about it with Mr. Garvin, who said Elderkin came here and induced him to act as counsel and to secure three other reputable business men to become incorporators as a matter of form. This was all he had to do with it. Mr. Garvin's standing is such that nobody who knows him will for a moment suspect him of any guilty knowledge of any crookedness if any exists. He said he did not know that there was anything wrong with the company, but it certainly did business in a most peculiar way. As soon as he heard of the irregularities charged he resigned his position as president of the concern.

Mr. Elderkin came here late in February, and employed Mr. Garvin in a legal capacity, to organize the West Virginia Fire and Marine Insurance Company of Wheeling, with a capital stock of two hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Elderkin put down his name, in the application for a charter, for ninety-six shares of stock, and Mr. Garvin and three other gentlemen each took one share of stock, the three latter at the request of Mr. Garvin, who desired to formally comply with the law in getting up the company. Mr. Elderkin having assured him that in case the four local incorporators did not desire to remain in the company, the stock would be taken off their hands. The charter was granted March 2d, and on the following day Mr. Garvin and Mr. Elderkin met in Mr. Garvin's office and elected the five incorporators as directors. Mr. Garvin was then elected president, and Mr. Elderkin secretary. Mr. Elderkin exhibited to Mr. Garvin sundry papers, purporting to be mortgages and other securities, representing a large sum, and a number of policies, which had been already printed by Mr. Elderkin, or some one for him, were signed up. These policies, singular to relate, do not state where they were issued, although the inference is left, from reading them, that they were issued in Wheeling.

On the 4th of March, one day after the organization at the office of Mr. Garvin, the following financial exhibit was issued and extensively circulated:

Loans on real estate, secured by mortgages.....$14,630
Loans secured by collateral.....21,125
Stocks and bonds.....22,200
Cash.....6,293
Stock notes, secured.....38,775

Total.....$100,000

On the 1st day of March, three days before the organization of the company, and one day before the charter was received, policy No. 5,072, for $1,000, was issued through a Chicago broker upon the Elson Glass Works, of Martin's Ferry, which policy is now in the hands of the United States authorities in this city. This fact seems to show that policies were printed and sent out before the organization of the company, or before it had a legal existence, and that good money was paid by those desiring insurance for such policies. Letters received in this city from the Findlay (Ohio) Glass company and from Buffalo, N. Y., show that insurance was sought in the name of the West Virginia Fire and Marine in those cities, and inquiries were made as to the standing of the company of local people before the policies were placed. Business cards issued by the company bear the following list of officials and directors, which seem to be different from the board elected in this city: T. M. Garvin, president; Dr. Frank Hunt, George L. Emminger, J. K. Elderkin and Hon. William H. Raymond.
